Initial Disclosure Document

About our Consumer Credit Service

1. The Financial Conduct Authority

The FCA is the independent regulator of financial services. This document is given to customers considering buying certain financial products. You need to read this important document as it explains the service we offer.

2. What products do we offer, and from whom?

We only offer products from a limited number of lenders

3. Which services will we provide you with?

You will not receive any advice or recommendations from us in relation to finance. We may ask you certain questions to assist us in narrowing down the selection of products that we will provide you details on. We may use this information to conduct a soft credit search to assess your eligibility for credit products. You will then need to make your own choice about how to proceed. Once we submit your application to a third-party credit provider, they may conduct a hard credit search which can negatively impact your credit score. We will always provide you with both the advantages and disadvantages of the product types that are available to you. We are not an Independent Financial Advisor (IFA).

4. What will you have to pay us for our services?

The lender may charge their own fees. These may include, but are not limited to documentation fees, option to purchase fees, excess mileage charges or administration fees but this information will always be provided to you in the quote that we provide. You will receive documentation from the credit provider before proceeding with any financial product which will tell you about any fees relating to it.

We do not charge fees for our services however we will be typically paid a commission by the lender for the introduction that we make to them. This is a financial incentive but also to facilitate the administration of the application. We will discuss commission arrangements with you but have also provided as much information as is currently known here.

As we are a credit broker and have a commercial relationship with the lender, the introduction we make is not impartial, but we will make introductions in line with your needs, subject to your circumstances.

Commission received could be a flat fee or a percentage of the finance amount, depending on the lender. The commission value may be unknown until the application has been agreed in principle but will be disclosed to you prior to you entering into a finance agreement. This may or may not affect the total amount repayable. The lender will disclose this information before you enter into an agreement.

If you wish to obtain impartial advice on the full range of potential finance options that may be available to you, you will need to make your own arrangements but are free to do so as part of the purchase of your vehicle.

To proceed with your application, you must confirm your understanding of these conditions and provide your explicit consent for us to receive a commission for the introduction as detailed above. You can do this by signing at the end of this document and returning a copy to us.
